Staff Profiles

Kacey Pennifold, Teacher of Religion, Ethics and Philosophy

I first joined TTC in 2013, where I gained experience as a trainee member of staff, teaching Religion, Ethics and Philosophy. The support and encouragement I received from members of staff not only in my department but other areas of the College was very reassuring. I carried on working at TTC for my NQT year, where I was able to develop my teaching and receive the continued support that I had as a trainee teacher. This helped me develop my Teaching and Learning and also encouraged me to be a reflective practitioner. I am currently in my fourth year working at TTC and now support trainees and NQTs by delivering training sessions and mentoring. TTC is a very supportive and rewarding place to work where you can develop your career in your focused area.

Paul Welch, Teacher of Physical Education

Since joining TTC I've thrown myself fully into Academy life. I've been involved with lots of the sports run at the college, especially athletics and rugby along with assisting the Head of PE with regards to improving T&L and outcomes within the department. Having led on lots of department CPD sessions, I was delighted to be informed by the Head of Department they wanted me to lead the athletics and rugby development within the College due the recent success we have had at the Coastal, District and National level. This responsibility has enabled me to work with some of the College's most able sports students within Star Squad, to aid them in their development both sporting and academic. These students also attended CPD courses with international and national coaches to learn and develop how we can keep this talent pool of athletes coming through TTC. These workshops and courses have helped me to continue to improve my own practice and to improve the PE departments teaching and learning as a whole, to ensure the PE curriculum enables everyone to have an inclusion programme of study.

TTC have been very supportive through this whole process, including approving courses for me to attend to further enhance my own knowledge and that of the PE department as a whole.
