STAFF WORKING CONDITIONS

At Cambridge House staffing is our priority and is considered our most essential resource; increased staff salaries, staff welfare and improved working conditions are the most important objective of the school in terms of staffing.

Teaching salaries in Spain are set by union agreement on a national scale (known as 'convenio'). This is made up of a base salary (subject to annual review) and obligatory complementary payments. At Cambridge House not only do we fulfill all conditions set out in the convenio agreement, we also have our own internal benefits incentive scheme in order to pay over and above normal Spanish teaching salaries.

All teaching staff have access to immediate advice concerning their salaries and contributions made on their behalf through the Human Resource Manager, Inma Ramirez, who liaises closely with the Senior Leadership Team to ensure that staff are supported and their well-being is ensured.

Employment conditions at Cambridge House are excellent and virtually unrivalled in Spain. While some schools in Spain employ staff for temporary periods of between ten months and two years (not being liable therefore for many of the state contributions incurred), Cambridge House offers a permanent contract ('contrato fijo indefinido') to teachers from their first day of employment, with a policy of ensuring that full National Health, social security, tax and pension contributions are made.

The contributions paid guarantee our staff salary security during periods of illness, maternity and paternity leave and full index-linked pensions, which are attractive in comparison to pensions in other countries. The school also has its own attractive private pension plan which staff can opt into. We work hard to create an attractive financial benefits scheme for all our staff.

We offer the following benefits over and above the set 'convenio' salary, which include:

- A flexible performance incentive scheme which allows staff to earn substantially more than the standard teaching salary
- An extended two-month summer holiday period, subject to individual working conditions. Teachers who opt to work during the month of July will receive increased financial benefits
- A free lunch every day
- One free school place for each teacher's children, which includes registration costs, insurance, class materials and lunch (subject to availability).
- A contributory private pension plan with additional payments towards the plan made by the school and linked to the flexible financial benefits scheme.
- Optional subsidised private medical insurance which covers general illness and dentistry.
- On-site welfare advice and support and help with banking arrangements.
- Fuel and travel contributions in support of school initiatives.
- Excellent career and staff development opportunities.
- Periods of sponsored leave.
- A caring and supportive Senior Leadership and Management Team with a mission "to do what is right" and to offer individualised support to all members of staff.

Opportunities to increase salary (linked to the flexible performance benefit scheme), including:

-employment in support of our own Community College activities;

-support to develop individual business opportunities;

· support and facilities to enable staff to undertake a variety of development and professional opportunities.
