

Engineering and science excellence for 14-19 year olds in Birmingham

Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator

Required September 2014

Salary: Competitive, negotiable depending on experience

This is an exciting and trailblazing opportunity to work in the first new build, major University sponsored University Technical College (UTC) in the country. Our UTC offers 14-19 students the opportunity to undertake a highly regarded, technically orientated course of study at a specialist academy. AUEA is equipped to the highest standards and offers clear progression routes into higher education and the world of work. AUEA is building to a complement of 240 14-16 year olds and 360 16-18 year olds over the next two years.

AUEA is committed to the achievement of every student, without exception, including ensuring access to our engineering and science subject specialisms and we are therefore looking for an outstanding SENCO to lead the provision for our SEN students. Looking to develop their leadership skills in a first subject leadership role and this is an exciting opportunity for a dynamic, ambitious and energetic individual to lead across KS4 and ensure that science learning at AUEA is applied and our young people are engaged and motivated to strive for excellence.

We are seeking a professional who is:

- An inspirational leader and teacher who has the highest expectations of students.
- An excellent classroom practitioner
- Innovative and creative with excellent interpersonal skills
- Able to demonstrate a proven record in raising the achievement of students with SEN

If you have the credentials, ambition and commitment to help establish Aston University Engineering Academy as a leading educational institution then you can apply online at <http://www.auea.co.uk/Vacancies>.
