

BOARDING AND DAY HOUSE MATRON

JOB DESCRIPTION

The main function of this post is to be an adult presence in the House and to be responsible for the safeguarding, welfare and security of pupils by assisting the Housemaster/Housemistress (HoM) and their team in the supervision of the health and welfare of the pupils and their 'House', the physical building within which they live.

The job may involve any or all of the following specifications. Above all, there is an expectation of a parent figure who is generous with their time and responsive to the needs of the pupils. The list is neither definitive nor exhaustive and the range of tasks will embrace many incidents and situations which are not stated, but require initiative and common sense to be applied.

The post requires someone who likes and understands young people and is able to demonstrate good sense. They should have good personal inter-active skills with young people and their parents and guardians by being a good listener, flexible in outlook, reliable, warm and friendly in disposition, with sufficient sensitivity to show tact and diplomacy. A sense of humour and an even temper dealing with all situations in a co-operative and sensitive manner are also fundamental to carrying out this job effectively. The nature of the work requires physical fitness, a good level of stamina and an ability to handle laundry and climb a large number of stairs.

It is envisaged that every House will have a slightly different approach to the job, depending upon the particular circumstances, strengths and skill of the individual post holders. The role could also vary according to whether the matron works in a boarding or day house and whether residential. What follows are the expectations of the role; however, it is important that these and the specific requirements and expectations of the role that pertain to each individual House are reviewed annually by the HoM and the Matron and redefined as appropriate.
