Information about the Mathematics Faculty

Organisation

The mathematics faculty is a settled but innovative team who are constantly striving to improve and enhance the teaching and learning in our classrooms. We want to develop mathematics across the curriculum and encourage students to become enthusiastic about the subject. Most importantly we want students to master basic functional numeracy skills so they can be successful in KS4 studies and beyond.

The mathematics team comprises of a Head of Faculty, and seven members of staff. We are looking to appoint a teacher who is passionate about delivering a lively curriculum and are committed to exploring leading edge initiatives.

The curriculum

Years 7, 8 and 9 follow the new national curriculum for KS3 with an emphasis on including challenge, interaction and collaborative learning which will include functional skills elements. We have high expectations and, during year 8, the upper groups will be expected to cover a range of high level topics. Year 9 students currently start their GCSE course in January.

We have a robust tracking system which allows us to identify students who are underachieving at an early stage and we share class progress information freely within our faculty. We are a very supportive team who meet regularly to share teaching ideas and who support each other in managing the day to day challenges of teaching in an 11-18 comprehensive school.

In addition to teaching GCSE mathematics to KS4 students, mathematics and further mathematics are popular options in the sixth form.

Accommodation

The mathematics faculty is situated in a purpose built suite of rooms. All rooms have either data projectors or interactive whiteboards.

Commitment to the role of the Personal Tutor

Personal tutors are seen as a vital link in the learning process and in the management of the school. The role centres on monitoring and mentoring, and requires tutors:

- to be aware of the strengths and needs of each student in their tutor group
- to assist in raising the level of performance of students (by monitoring progress, reviewing and target setting) using allocated time-tabled time
- to promote the development of a positive attitude (by monitoring attendance/punctuality, checking Student Planners and counselling in relation to the Rewards and Expectations scheme)
- to communicate and interpret agreed guidelines and practices to students
- to communicate effectively with parents and colleagues on a day-to-day basis.

This is an important, demanding and time-consuming role which makes a significant contribution to the achievement of students. It is essential that applicants for teaching posts understand that they will be required to be Personal Tutors and therefore must endorse this philosophy.
