Dear Colleague,

Vacancy for the post of Head of Science

I am delighted that you have expressed an interest in the above vacancy at Khalsa Secondary Academy.

Set on beautiful grounds in the heart of Stoke Poges, Buckinghamshire, Khalsa Secondary Academy opened in September 2013, and is part of the Khalsa Academies Trust. Members of the Trust have been working with the Department for Education for over 13 years.

The Trust has three Academies:

- Khalsa Secondary Academy in South Buckinghamshire which opened in September 2013.
- The British Sikh School, a new Secondary Free School in Wolverhampton which opened in September 2015.
- The Atam Academy, a new all-through (4 – 19) Free School in East London, which opened in September 2016.

As our Academy grows, we are looking to appoint new colleagues to join our vibrant school.

Our motto, “Excellence in all that we do” drives the work of the Academy. We adopt a “no limits” approach to learning. High aspirations combined with a positive approach to learning creates an environment where students can grow into motivated, decisive and self-assured individuals.

We value the uniqueness that each member of our Academy brings to our community. We promote good citizenship and invite students to share their views through participation in the school council, pupil surveys, focus groups, forums and interview panels, thereby involving them in decision making.

Khalsa Secondary Academy is a happy and exciting place to work, where every member of the school team is valued. We aim to recruit the highest calibre of staff through all areas of the school. All staff work with a professional, committed and enthusiastic attitude. In return, we will provide opportunities for personal and career development by investing in training and support both befitting the individual and whole school.

We are very proud of our achievements so far and remain optimistic about our future. You may want to visit our website which you will find interesting and informative. However, no images on screen or words in a text can adequately capture our eventful and vibrant school day.

So why not come and visit us to meet with our students and gain first- hand knowledge of our rich community in action? Our students are our best ambassadors!

Visits can be arranged by emailing my PA, Ms Katpitia at:
principal@khalsasecondaryacademy.com . And she makes the best cup of coffee!

I look forward to meeting you.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs S Piesse
Acting Principal
