OUR VALUES

Community

We are supportive of each other. We take care of one another and act with kindness. We are connected to our community. We collaborate rather than work alone. Within collaborative teams, we meet our commitments and responsibilities. We value our diversity. We believe that all people have inherent value.

Innovation

We work in a fast-paced environment. The unexpected routinely challenges the normal way in which we do things. We are agile. We thrive on challenges. We respond to change creatively. We believe that innovation involves research, collaboration and good listening skills. We are open-minded because we recognise that our own solution is not the only possibility. We are prepared to suspend judgement until we are full-minded. We look for sustainable, thoughtful solutions that are consistent with our values. We are proactive and rational.

Integrity

We are consistent and persistent with process. "We plan, communicate, reflect, and recalibrate in ways that clarify, commend, and model" (Carol Ann Tomlinson). We do our jobs well and with enthusiasm. We take ownership of our own actions and of our areas of responsibility. We believe that trust is vital to positive relationships. We are open-minded, ethical, honest and forthright.

International Mindedness

We are responsible and knowledgeable members of local, national and international communities. LCIS students and teachers come from a range of perspectives, values and traditions. We build from diverse perspectives to generate a sense of common purpose. We share guardianship of our community and the planet. The learner profile is a set of ten dispositions that we value, demonstrate and expect. We call upon these dispositions when confronted with challenges.
