

About The Cambridge Maths School

Cambridge Maths School (CMS) is a specialist sixth form developed in partnership with the University of Cambridge, with a focus on pioneering learning and increasing diversity in the field of mathematical sciences. The school provides a diverse range of young people with access to a unique educational experience, located in bespoke facilities on Mill Road in Cambridge. The school offers A levels in mathematics, further mathematics, biology, chemistry, computer science and physics.

The school is seeking to appoint an enthusiastic and forward-thinking Teacher of Mathematics to join a high-performing and ambitious department. This is a full-time position with the opportunity to take on a TLR as Head of Year 12 for the right candidate .

The school delivers a highly specialised A-Level STEM-based curriculum to enthusiastic students from the eastern region. CMS works to attract high achieving students from groups who do not normally progress to the most competitive university STEM courses. Mathematics lies at the core of everything that takes place at Cambridge Maths School; it is the passion that unites teachers and students alike, and it represents a way of thinking and creating that empowers and enriches all the different aspects of the school curriculum.

Should the successful candidate be interested and appropriately qualified, there may be opportunities to teach Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science and Physics at the school also.
