

JOB DESCRIPTION

JOB TITLE	Teacher of Biology
DEPARTMENT/SECTION	Biology
REPORTS TO	Head of Biology

JOB SUMMARY:

The Teacher of Biology plays a crucial role in helping students master the science of Biology. We expect that the successful candidate will be expert in planning and delivering engaging lessons, including lab experiments and other scientific investigations, to enable all pupils to make the best possible progress in the subject.

Biology at Forest is a thriving department which comprises seven specialists. Results in recent years have been strong in the context of an academically selective and ambitious school, with 67% of students achieving A*-A at A-level in 2022. At GCSE, over 75% of pupils secured Grades 9-8 in the same year. Forest follows the Pearson IGCSE Biology specification and the OCR A-level specification.

The successful candidate would also be expected to contribute to our Key Stage Three Science programme which seeks to teach the fundamentals of Science before pupils begin to specialize into separate sciences. They would also be expected to play a role in contributing to the super-curricular life of the programme through supporting Science Week, Biology Olympiads and other opportunities.

As one of the largest day schools in HMC, Forest abounds with opportunities for professional and career development. Teachers at Forest are rarely just confined to their subject area and the majority play a full and active role in Forest's enviable super-curricular and co-curricular programme, with opportunities to lead in clubs and activities as diverse as Model United Nations, Extended Project Qualification, Jedi Warrior Lightsabre Fencing, Chapel Choir, Music Technology and Cricket, to give but a few examples. The ambition, richness, and distinct nature of the integrated curriculum at Forest offers our staff with an unparalleled experience of a modern and holistic education in our beautiful London setting. As our Good Schools Guide Review (2023) suggests Forest is a 'flourishing, successful and well-led school in a glorious, green setting with consistently strong results that don't require pupils to sacrifice happiness or wellbeing on the way to achieving them... an education that's so genuinely rounded you could make hoops from it.'

Forest invests heavily in the development of pedagogy and teaching strategy, with all teachers expected to engage in an ambitious Professional Learning Programme which includes seminars and contact with leading minds in the teaching and learning space; most recently, Forest welcomed Tom Sherrington who presented on curriculum strategy and design. In addition, we are immensely proud of our culture of formative, ongoing and developmental peer observation through our Teaching and Learning Communities. Teachers are also encouraged to liaise regularly with our team of Lead Teaching Practitioners and benefit from coaching and constructive critical feedback and reflection on their practice.

We would expect the successful applicant to teach the full range of Biology at Forest School, from Key Stage 3 to A-Level and Oxbridge preparation. A history of examining would be desirable but is not essential.
