Headteacher

Morpeth is an eight-form entry, mixed, 11-19 comprehensive school situated in Bethnal Green, Tower Hamlets and we are very much a community. Our values are longstanding; they encapsulate the way we work and the way the school feels.

We are a community:

- committed to learning and achievement
- based on friendship and respect
- where everyone is valued.

We are proud of our diversity – we represent the wider Tower Hamlets community – and recognise that in order to make everyone feel included and valued, this requires ongoing and explicit consideration.

We prioritise the development of trust and understanding between pupils from different backgrounds; all members of staff – teaching and non-teaching – work together regularly throughout the year to develop our relational practice. As a result, visitors frequently comment on how friendly the school feels and the excellent relationships between staff and between pupils and staff. We are over-subscribed both for Year 7 and the sixth form, and have a very strong track record of recruitment and retention of teaching and support staff.

We have over 110 teaching staff, 35 Teaching Assistants, and 70 other support staff who share a strong belief in what our pupils can achieve. Our teachers are subject specialists, passionate about those subjects and keen to develop their knowledge and practice. We also place great importance on learning beyond the classroom. There is an extensive programme of extra-curricular experiences and over 150 lunchtime and after school activities offered weekly.

We are fortunate in that the entire school has been rebuilt or refurbished to a very high standard over recent years, and we have been able to invest heavily in learning resources for pupils. Schools across Tower Hamlets have a long tradition of working closely together and in recent years this has been facilitated and strengthened by the Tower Hamlets Education Partnership.

What makes us different?

Our KS4 curriculum structure

When we reviewed our KS4 curriculum in 2010 we decided that the traditional model that we offered didn't feel sufficiently flexible or tailored to our students both in terms of context and inclusion. It was 'one size fits all'. We wanted to continue to provide a rich and broad curriculum where the arts are valued alongside core academic subjects but also one that could recognise students' individual needs.

The model we have now is one that is innovative, ambitious, dynamic and responsive to students' needs. We typically offer 25 optional examined courses. Alongside core subjects, students choose two options each year in Years 9, 10 and 11, courses being one year in length, and having the equivalent time of one-day a week per course. Students will take exams at the end of the year. The majority of students will study the EBacc subjects (approximately 80%) with significantly higher than national numbers taking GCSEs in creative and expressive arts, and design technology.

Our inclusive approach

We support students by:

- focusing on both systems and practice - we recognise that we need strong systems to provide structure however, in a school that views high quality relationships as the key driver in all that we do we place an emphasis on supporting colleagues' practice;
- being trauma-informed - understanding that behaviour is a two-way language of communication;
- being compassionate - making decisions about behaviour based on the context of every child and situation;
- being data-led - using both qualitative and quantitative data helps us ask the right questions about behaviour and inclusion, in the same way as progress and attainment.

We recognise that in order to prioritise the development of positive relationships across the school, we have to build it into our structures. In September 2023, we moved to a vertical tutoring system where pupils meet three times a week in coaching circles made up of 12 pupils from Years 7 – 11.

We have 100 circles, led by coaches from across our teaching and support staff and organised into five houses. The circles and houses are fundamental to ensuring every child feels that they belong to our community.

What do we offer?

We know that to provide the best support for our pupils, we need to have staff who feel happy in their role, trusted and well-supported. Teaching staff are able to work from home for some of their PPA time, we take a positive approach to requests for flexible working, we create regular opportunities for all staff to mix socially through weekly staff circles, free staff breakfasts and our Staff Association who run events and trips throughout the year. Teachers have autonomy to plan lessons within departmental agreed curriculum plans and we have regular subject teach meets within departments with a focus on developing subject pedagogy.

We have never believed in performance-related pay, but do believe in the importance of continual professional development and in regular scheduled opportunities for staff to discuss and reflect upon their professional development across the school year. We support and encourage the full breadth of professional development opportunities – formal and informal - from external CPD, to supporting Masters level qualifications including study days and a contribution to costs, providing coaches for NPQ courses and to ongoing high-quality internal training opportunities.

- Encourage and welcome the positive involvement of parents
- Ensure all pupils are respected, trusted and cared for
- Maximise the academic and social potential of all pupils regardless of need

The Learning Support Department is located on the ground floor of the north building. Staff includes 3 specialist SEN teachers, a deputy SENCO and a number of teaching assistants (TAs), including a team of Higher Level Teaching Assistants.

SEN relevant training is provided for all staff on a regular basis. A library of informative literature and research books on Special Educational Needs is held within the Department and is available to all teaching staff. There is also a range of books available for pupil and parent use in the library.

How we identify if a young person/child requires additional support:

- Local Authority identified pupil via the allocation of a statement/EHCP
- Liaison with primary schools
- In house assessment of pupils in KS4 during the autumn term – to identify pupils who need additional support for GCSE exams
- In house assessment for SpLD by SENCO
- Liaison with previous secondary school if relevant
- Concerns raised by parents, pupils, TAs and teaching staff
- Liaison with external agencies

What we do to support our pupils:

- During the transition, all year 6 pupils with EHCPs or identified additional needs are invited for a carousel of transition sessions. Parents of these pupils are also invited in for a coffee morning in July. Upon entry, the new year 7 cohort have a short period of time to adjust to the layout of the school before the other year groups return to school.
- MITA Project: All year 7 and 8 tutor groups are supported by a TA in class, the aim of this strategy is for an additional member of staff to develop a strong relationship with all pupils and offer support to all year 7 and 8 pupils (MITA is part of the research from University College London which has assessed the impact of TAs on pupil outcomes).
- Quality first teaching is provided for all pupils, every teacher is responsible for meeting the needs of pupils in their classroom through differentiated tasks and strategies.
- Provision for pupils with additional needs includes class support, one to one support, small group work and specialist input where needed,
- A range of intervention is offered across the school for literacy, numeracy, social and communication skills and social and emotional support.
- Specialist support for pupils with EHCP/statements, this may include core subjects being taught by SEN teachers, high level of needs may require a personalised curriculum and at key stage 4 a small minority of pupils are offered an alternative non-examined option.
- Assessment and provision for examination access arrangements for any pupil who has identified additional needs.
- For pupils that have additional needs that require external support we work with a range of professionals: Speech and Language therapists, Occupational Therapist, Educational Psychologists and CAMHS etc.
- For pupils who require additional emotional support we have a Student Development Suite – a team of professionals who work with pupils on their emotional and mental wellbeing.

How we check that our pupils are making progress and share this information with parents:

- Progress reports are provided for all pupils three times per year. Reports initially focus on the learning dispositions of 'participation' and 'organisation' and then in subsequent reports a judgement is made on progress.
- SEN staff are available at all parents' evenings to discuss support and progress.
- The SEN teaching staff regularly meet with the parent of pupils with EHCP and other pupils on the SEN register. We actively involve pupils and parents, both parents and pupils have a voice during review meetings and EHCP annual reviews.
- The Learning Support Department holds a range of parent support coffee mornings across the year.
