Teacher of History September 2021 start

Department:	History and Politics
Hours:	Full Time and Permanent
Report to:	Head of History and Politics
Job Purpose:	This is an exciting opportunity for an outstanding Teacher of History to join this high performing School. The History and Politics Department is looking to recruit an enthusiastic, qualified graduate to teach History in our well-equipped department. History is a compulsory core subject from Year 7 to Year 9 and the current curriculum provides invaluable opportunities for pupils to develop their historical skills and gain a thematic and chronological understanding of British and World History from 1066 to the present day. At Brentwood, GCSE History is a very popular choice and we currently follow the Edexcel IGCSE World History syllabus. In the Sixth Form, History can be taken within the context of the IBDP (both standard and higher level) and at A Level where we offer two different courses. A pleasing number of those studying IBDP or A Level History elect to broaden and deepen their knowledge and understanding of the subject at university, whilst many more will study closely related disciplines. The department organises regular trips and visits and visiting guest lecturers regularly address students. Additional support is provided for students applying to read history at Oxbridge and other leading universities in the UK and overseas. The role involves teaching History throughout the School, with the possibility of teaching either IB or A Level in the Sixth Form for the right candidate. The successful candidate will also be expected to assist in the support offered to pupils outside the classroom along with participating in the Department's extra-curricular offering. Furthermore, all teaching staff are expected to participate fully in the wider life of the School through co-curricular involvement. The School and the Senior Management Team are strongly supportive of History and recognise the important role it plays in the cultural and intellectual life of the whole School community.
