

The Long Eaton School is situated in the town of Long Eaton, an urban area between Derby and Nottingham but within easy reach of Nottingham, Derby and Leicester. The town of Long Eaton has experienced a change in employment patterns over the past 20 years. Traditionally the area was known for both furniture making and as an extension to the Nottingham lace industry. A small number of furniture manufacturers still exist within the town but most of the local businesses are small medium sized enterprises covering a range of different industries. The proximity of the town to the M1 has also resulted in the growth of distribution companies within the town.
