

At the turn of the 20th Century, few people's minds were focused on the importance of giving girls an education. Our Christian founders, however, made an absolute commitment to this when they opened Headington in 1915.

The Christian values, which continue to underpin everything we do at Headington, are part of what makes the School so special.

Today, the School has a vibrant, international community with girls of all faiths and none. Respect for that cultural and spiritual diversity is something we take very seriously while making sure we reflect the Christian values of our founders.

Our values and ethos are at the heart of our school community and inform and underpin everything we do.

At Headington, we are committed to enabling every girl to flourish and thrive, whatever her background.

We will support your daughter to grow and develop as an individual, achieving her potential beyond her – and your – expectations.

As an Educational Charity, We Aim To

- Provide a stimulating, enriching and forward thinking environment for all pupils, where achievement, enterprise, creativity and leadership are nurtured and developed
- Encourage, challenge and value every individual, promoting honesty, openness, tolerance and understanding
- Cultivate self-confidence, independence and responsibility, equipping students for an active and positive role in an ever-changing world
- Benefit our local community by providing access to educational resources, expertise and facilities

Headington girls learn to think for themselves, developing both resilience and compassion as we foster and promote creativity and encourage them to be ambitious in their aspirations. Your daughter will leave Headington with far more than just excellent academic results or a place at one of the world's top universities but as an intellectually curious, emotionally confident and socially responsible individual with a strong sense of self and a lifelong love of learning.
