

Living and working in
Nottinghamshire

Nottinghamshire, situated in the very heart of England, is a great place to live and work. With affordable housing in urban and rural areas, Nottinghamshire is the perfect place to begin or further your career as a teacher.

Our city and county schools are an easy commute from the popular residential areas of West Bridgford, Wollaton and Beeston, and with London just over an hour away by train, living and working in Nottinghamshire provides the best of both worlds.

A Vibrant City

Nottingham is a vibrant and cosmopolitan city with excellent shopping, night-life, restaurants and cultural amenities. With one of the busiest shopping streets in Europe, Nottingham can boast an enviable roster of exclusive shopping destinations.

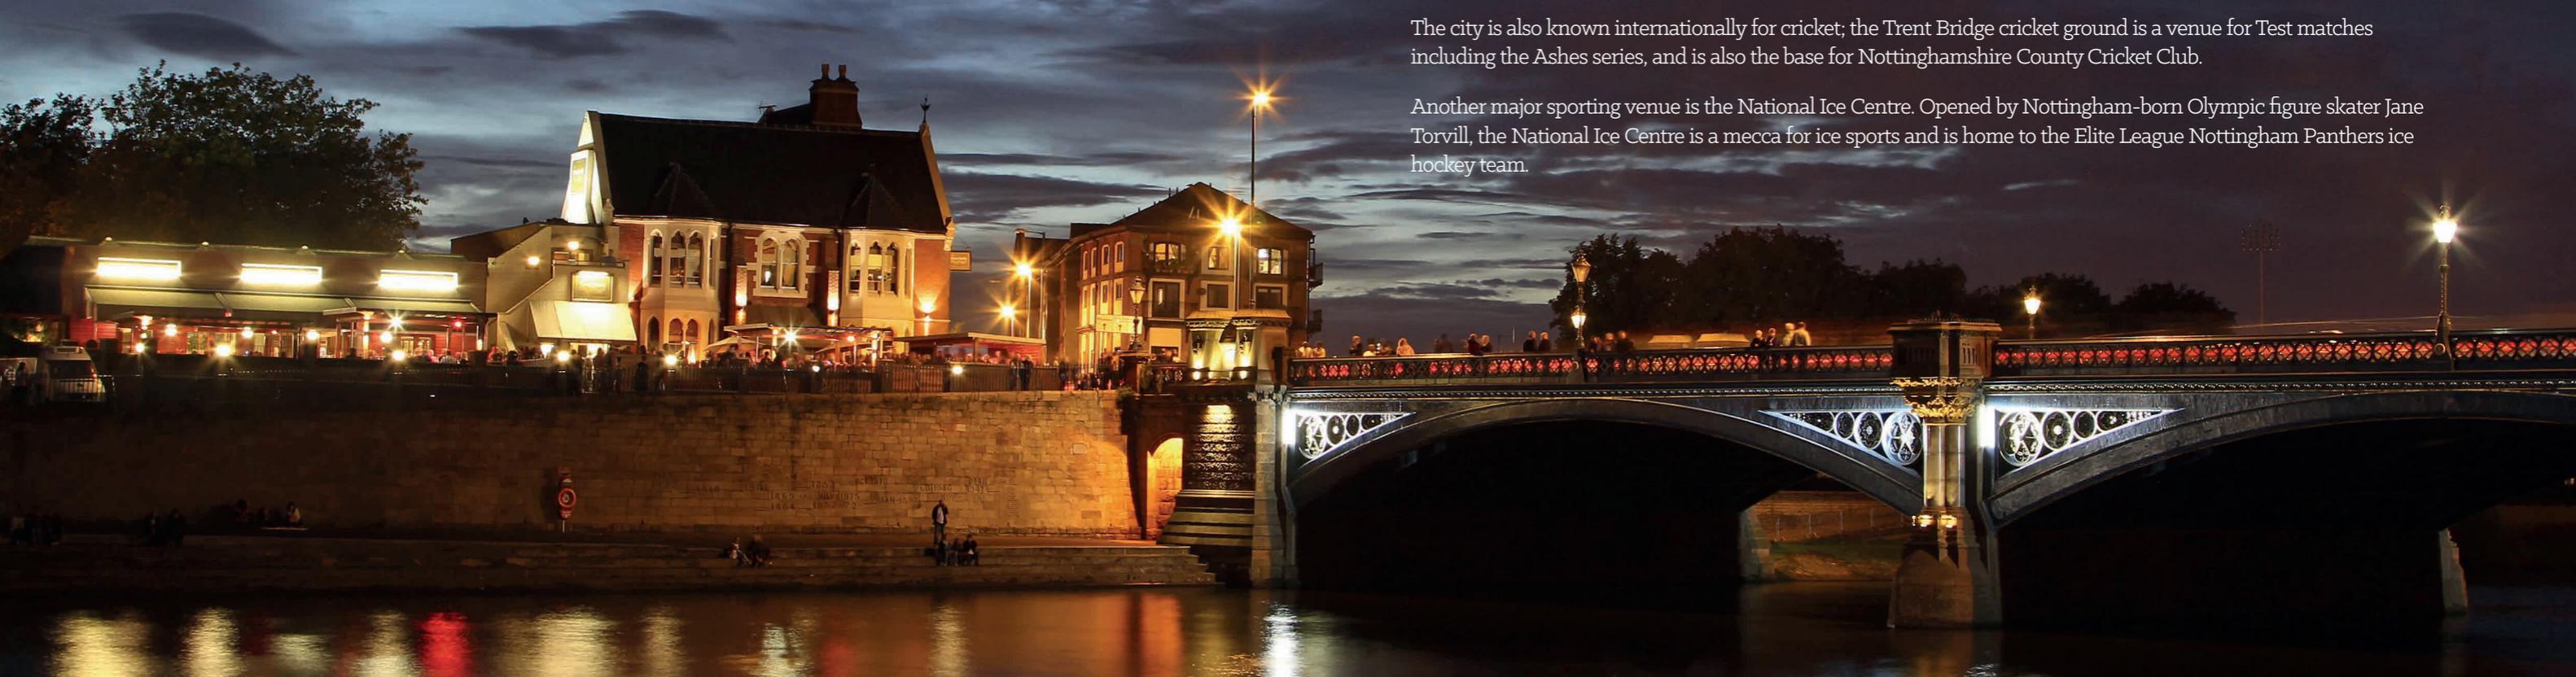

From Michelin-starred chefs to a good old fry-up, Nottingham provides a rich platter of eating experiences.

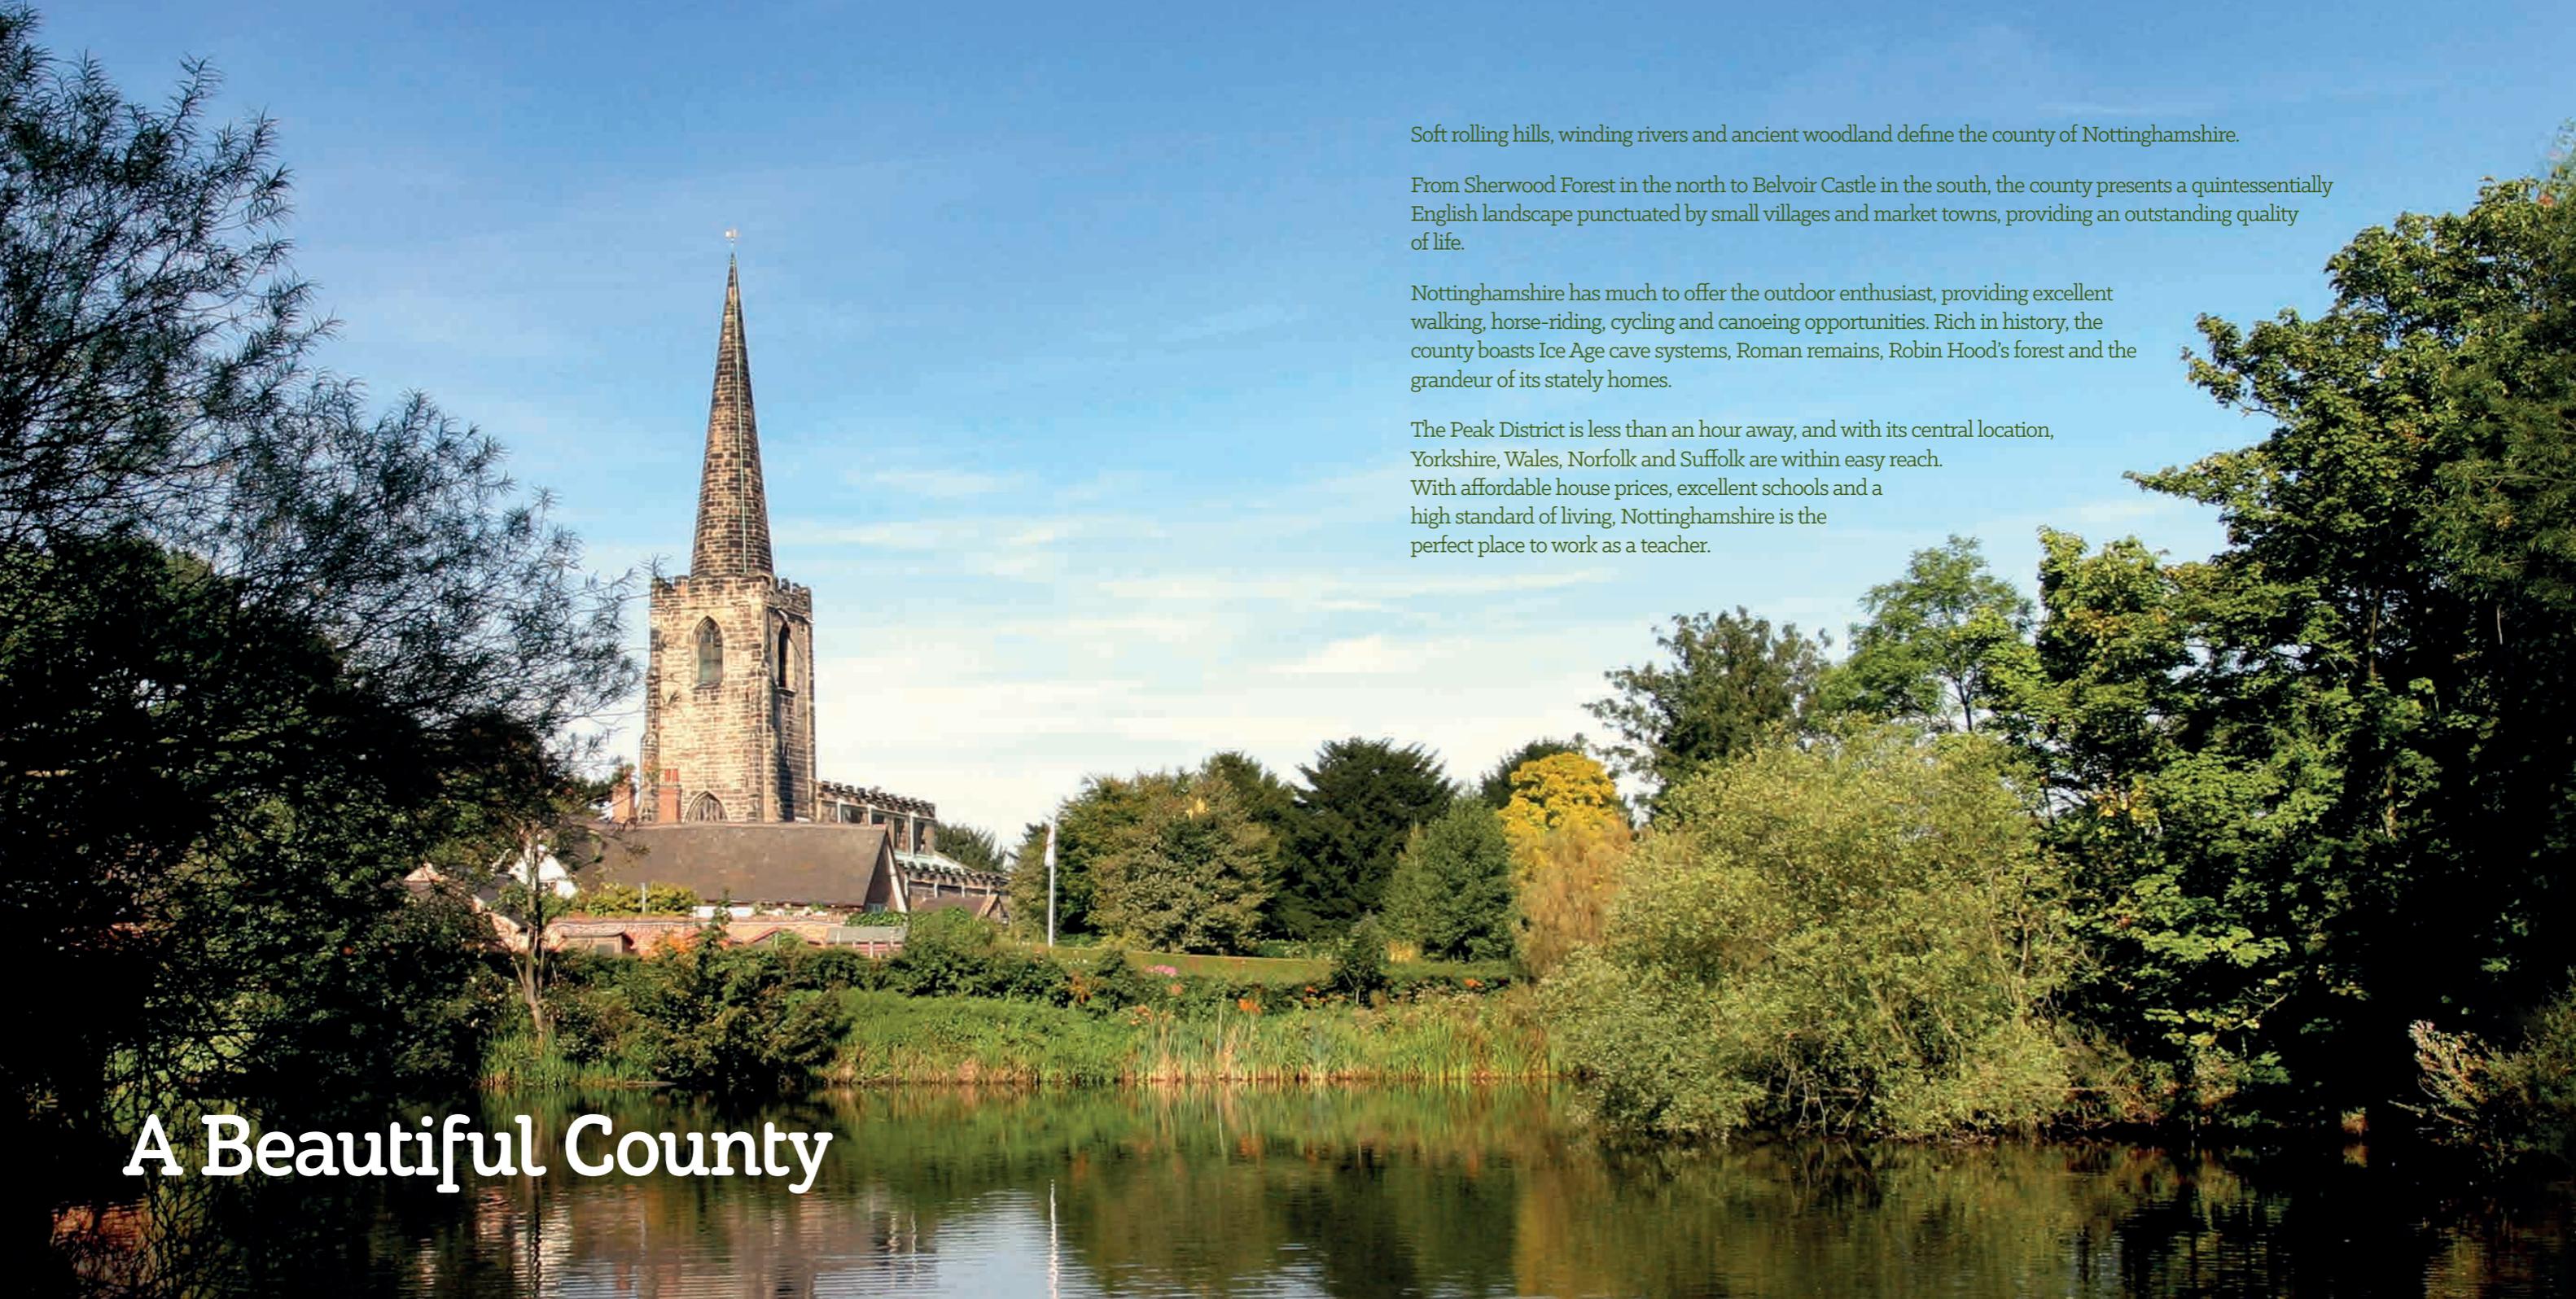

Home to two theatres, a concert hall, a thriving arts cinema and the renowned Rock City music venue, Nottingham can rightly claim to be the cultural capital of the East Midlands. More acquired tastes are catered for by the Nottingham Contemporary Art Gallery and a host of smaller arts and performance venues supporting a diverse programme of events.

Nottingham is home to two professional football clubs; Nottingham Forest and Notts County. Their two football grounds are located on opposite sides of the River Trent. Notts County, formed in 1862, is the oldest professional football club in the world.

The city is also known internationally for cricket; the Trent Bridge cricket ground is a venue for Test matches including the Ashes series, and is also the base for Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club.

Another major sporting venue is the National Ice Centre. Opened by Nottingham-born Olympic figure skater Jane Torvill, the National Ice Centre is a mecca for ice sports and is home to the Elite League Nottingham Panthers ice hockey team.

Soft rolling hills, winding rivers and ancient woodland define the county of Nottinghamshire.

From Sherwood Forest in the north to Belvoir Castle in the south, the county presents a quintessentially English landscape punctuated by small villages and market towns, providing an outstanding quality of life.

Nottinghamshire has much to offer the outdoor enthusiast, providing excellent walking, horse-riding, cycling and canoeing opportunities. Rich in history, the county boasts Ice Age cave systems, Roman remains, Robin Hood's forest and the grandeur of its stately homes.

The Peak District is less than an hour away, and with its central location, Yorkshire, Wales, Norfolk and Suffolk are within easy reach. With affordable house prices, excellent schools and a high standard of living, Nottinghamshire is the perfect place to work as a teacher.
