Head of Modern Foreign Languages at The Bolsover School

The school are looking to appoint a new head of Modern Foreign Languages to oversee and develop student attainment and progress across French, German and Spanish. Languages is an area of the school that is improving and is an important part of the wider curriculum offering at The Bolsover School, thus enabling the school to offer a broad and balanced curriculum to all. It is important that our students can follow a pathway that is specific to their needs allowing them to achieve their potential.

An exciting opportunity has arisen meaning we are looking for a dynamic and enthusiastic linguist to take on the role of Head of Modern Foreign Languages and to lead the faculty from the front. Providing leadership and accountability in order to continue the positive direction in which the Languages subjects are moving, this vacancy offers a tremendous opportunity for somebody wanting to take the next step in his or her career and move into middle leadership. Similarly, it would appeal to someone looking for a new direction in his or her career. We can offer access to a wide range of CPD opportunities both internally and as part of the Redhill Academy Trust, both subject-related, leadership related and in a wider teaching and learning context.

The Modern Foreign Languages faculty will consist of three full time teachers (including the successful applicant) and one, part time teacher. The Modern Foreign Languages faculty will become an excellent mix of staff who offer many years of experience, which would allow them to support effectively any new colleagues. Schemes of work are established at all key stages and in all subject areas.

The department has fantastic facilities. Each classroom offers access to interactive whiteboards, visualizers, data projectors and a range of other ICT and teaching materials. The faculty benefits from a large staff base which offers access to ICT facilities and workspace for lesson preparation and marking.
